SEVENTY-FIRST YEAR

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

“Comradeship—Citizenship—Character.” This definition of THE UNION’S aims stands out forcefully as we review the work for the past twelve months and face the new year.

“We need a Social Secretary, a glad-hand man,” said one of our members at a recent conference of representatives of the various clubs and groups. “I don’t agree with you,” promptly responded another. “I think every member of THE UNION should consider himself a social secretary.”

Does not this suggest the two great commandments on which the Master has said “hang all the law and the prophets”? “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.” “Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.”

Abraham Lincoln, while not actively connected with any church, is reported to have said that to that church which would inscribe over its altar as its sole confession of faith these two commandments, he would subscribe with all his heart and soul and mind.

And who is a neighbor? Is he not the man under the next shower bath, in the next chair in the Library, the young man just coming into the Main Office, a stranger just come to the city from afar, and who has looked in for a bit of our advertised “comradeship”? Do you, good member, greet him with the same hearty words and handshake that so pleased you when one time you were greeted in store, hotel, social gathering or church? Doesn’t that cheery greeting still linger with you as a pleasant memory? Are we all glad-hand members? Are we good neighbors? Do we follow the law and the gospel completely summed up in the Great Commandments?

This neighborliness, this appreciation of mutual interest and obligation constitutes the principle of citizenship, ensures good citizenship—the second aim suggested by our slogan.

If, then, each one, sensing his duty and obligation, quits passing the buck, says, “Let us do it,” not, “Let George do it,” uses more frequently the pronoun “we” rather than “they,” shall we not at once develop character and fulfill the purpose as defined in the Act of Incorporation “moral and Christian improvement”?

“Moral and Christian improvement” is what this old world needs today as never before. Why should not the Young Men’s Christian Union prove the organization to lead the way?

I like to think of THE UNION as a laboratory of human relationships, a meeting-place where young men may gather and in a well-organized and purely democratic fashion work out all sorts of programs for personal development and mutual service, giving to the community and to the world an example of pure democracy and progress. I picture THE UNION as the home of many little groups, the members of each having in mind some special objective, and in real neighborliness and helpfulness to one another attaining more than would be possible by individual effort, or by sitting down and waiting for some one else to do for them—waiting to be served.

Let us have a sort of cafeteria service, less expensive, and more effective as regards time and certainty in securing what is wanted. Then I see related groups, again mutually helpful, grouping themselves—shall I say in groups of groups?—completing what I suggest we may describe as organized democracy. Is not this real Christian Democracy?

This is the institution your small staff of employed workers visualizes and is trying to perfect. To this end a conference committee of active members, representing all the varied elements of our UNION life, has been created, with Herbert B. Turner of the Camera Club, Chairman, and Harold B. Bennison of the Gymnasium, Secretary. Its functions are in part the equivalent of those of a student council in a large college. Such a committee will keep the members closely in touch with the management of THE UNION. Its conferences, looking toward increasing the usefulness of THE UNION, have resulted in valuable recommendations. Some of them have been already included in the programs of the regular committees of the Board and plans for carrying them out are under way.

If every member will do his part toward establishing in their fullness our ideals, a maximum of usefulness can be accomplished. Let your minds work along this line. Think of ways you may help, things you can do, contributions you can make, service you may give on committees or to groups. Send a note to the "Bulletin" telling of some book you have read which has given you information or worth-while inspiration. Let us all have the benefit of some experience that has been of pleasure or profit to you. Possibly it will be of benefit or pleasure to a neighbor member.

Every one of us is willing, yes, I am sure anxious, to serve, eager to be a comrade. Let us perfect our organization, harness the ideas, the little helps of each in proper relation to those of the others, so that as with the cogs of a machine wheel, or the wheels of a perfect machine, each meshes in at the proper time without friction or slip, and success is certain.

We have secured a new building site hard to better. A new building and workshop is assured; with united effort it may well be made complete and beautiful. Our spirit of comradeship is growing stronger every day; perfection of our citizenship ensures accomplishment; and, best of all, the carrying out of such a program makes for development of character, the highest aim we can have, and which you will all agree is man's greatest achievement and most vital need.

The future for THE UNION is bright, its outlook has never been more encouraging. I urge you to hopeful, earnest effort, confident that 1922 and the succeeding years hold for us all much of happy fellowship and of attainment in personal profit and community good.

GENERAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

On closing the initial year of our second lifetime, reckoned in the terms of the traditional threescore years and ten, the Board of Directors greets a flourishing, contented and enthusiastic membership.

It has been the effort of your Directors to emphasize the work of THE UNION along the lines of its motto: Comradeship—Citizenship—Character. There are few of the enobling and inspiring things of this life but can be found represented under THE UNION roof.

In the department of Literature, THE UNION Library of over fifteen thousand books keeps the membership in touch, not only with the best in modern writing, but with the great masters of all time, who have inspired generation after generation and whose thoughts and words are always new.

Music in all its forms finds enthusiastic welcome from our Mendelssohn Singers, our Orchestral Club and our YD Band. Art is represented by the Camera Club, and it would be a confirmed cynic indeed who could see one of its exhibitions and deny that its members have turned out many pictures that in their admirable selection of subject and remarkable felicity of treatment have approached the standard of fine paintings. The highest mastery of photography as a fine art, centers, so far as New England goes, in THE UNION. The various artistic exemplifications of the spoken word are represented in the public discussions of the Park Street Club and in the studies of the primary and advanced sections of the Elocution Class, and even the drama itself has not been neglected, our co-operation with the Theatre Guild and the Community Service Dramatic Branch having been highly profitable to all, while the less pretentious efforts of our own members in the Hostess Room have been delightful.

As is always the case, we report enthusiasm and activity in the Gymnasium with its membership of twenty-one hundred. A more detailed report will be given on another page. The work of the Hostess Room has also been highly successful and of such a nature that it will present an individual report. A list of all the clubs with a slight reference to their functions will also be found elsewhere.

Situated in the down-town section, THE UNION is a tremendous convenience headquarters, a meeting-place, a calm, delightful shelter for the moment or for the hour. It has always been thus, we hope it always will be. That it has been more, that under William H. Baldwin and Frank L. Locke it has been an inspiration to its members and an upbuilder of character and manly strength, is its chief glory. THE UNION is proud of its membership, and our members show their pride in THE UNION. Together we are going steadily on, with increasing success in developing Comradeship—Citizenship—Character.

GEORGE S. BALDWIN

The Vice-President of THE UNION, George S. Baldwin, died on February fourth. The loss sustained by his death was a great one. He came upon the Board of Directors while his father of happy and cherished memory was still President of THE UNION and on his retirement became Vice-President.

The immense value, both practical and sentimental, of having a member of Mr. Baldwin's family upon the Board was greatly enhanced by his own ability and character. Although business and the community at large made great demands upon his time and energy, although his place in public affairs was not only important but arduous, he never relinquished his high place in the counsels of THE UNION. His was in the highest sense a life of service, and in that service THE UNION shared conspicuously. It is because of such men as George S. Baldwin, devoted, honorable and unflinching, that civic organizations and the governments of men attain their highest measure of success, and the life of George S. Baldwin reminds us that “the actions of the just Smell sweet and blossom in the dust.”

On February 13 the Board of Government placed the following tribute on its records:

“VOTED: The Board of Government of the Boston Young Men’s Christian Union wishes to express its sense of the loss sustained in the death of Vice-President George S. Baldwin.

In the prime of his powers he has been removed from a life of useful and distinguished service, and the loss to our own institution is more widely felt in the community of Greater Boston.

Bringing to THE UNION the spirit and principles of its most eminent upbuilder, his honored father, his mind was still open to the new methods and ideals of changing conditions, and his wise counsel, generous support and constant interest will continue to be of advantage to our welfare.

His official position will be occupied by another, but he will still hold his place in our personal regard and in the records of the Christian Union; and we assure his sorrowing family that we share in their loss, and also in all their memories of so worthy and honorable a career.”

WALTER HUNNEWELL

Walter Hunnewell, who had served THE UNION as Treasurer of the Permanent Fund for many years, until his resignation in 1920, passed away on the thirtieth of last September.

It would be hard to over-emphasize the loss which THE UNION has sustained in the death of this longtime faithful and consistent friend. Although nearly a year elapsed between his resignation—impelled by failing health—and his death, to those who had been accustomed to counsel with him on questions affecting the prosperity and policies of THE UNION it seemed as if he had hardly left our portals until the “strict account” of the “fell sergeant” had numbered him among those who return not. Mr. Hunnewell has left us not only a record of excellent administration, but a happy memory of a whole-souled and charming gentleman.

CO-OPERATION

In the long run no organization can be of real public service if it is self-centered. This danger THE UNION has steadily endeavored to avoid. Our co-operation has been freely extended to a large number of organizations whose activities have differed from ours but whose aims to be of service in the community are conspicuous. We are affiliated with the Boston Council of Social Agencies, that great federation of organizations whose basic idea is public service.

The Community Service has received not only substantial assistance in the work of its Dramatic Branch, but at its desire we placed rooms at the disposal of the veterans of the First and Third Divisions and the members of the Bessie Edwards Post. A room was long used by the organization of disabled veterans of the war.

The Massachusetts Safety Council joined forces with us with mutual profit, in two safety lecture courses. We have also co-operated in various ways with the Girls' City Club, the Theatre Guild and Newsboys' Association.

We do not let any opportunity slip to welcome to the use of our rooms, sometimes without cost, sometimes at a minimum of expense, organizations which are in need of such service as we can furnish. This is done in the most democratic and friendly spirit, believing that we can strike the best civic note by holding toward sister organizations the spirit which was expressed in the motto of D'Artagnan and his comrades—"All for one and one for all."

FINANCE

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE

* George S. Baldwin, Chairman. Ernest G. Adams

Increase in income from Permanent Funds due to added bequests and to advantageous reinvestments, together with an enlarged Gymnasium membership and slight advances in fees for Gymnasium privileges, enable the Committee to report closing the year with a small credit balance. While viewing this satisfactory result the Committee is mindful of the increasing opportunities for improvement in service and for extension of the many forms of helpful efforts for an expanding membership. Such improvement and extension means of course added expense. To meet this demand renewed suggestion is offered for increased generosity on the part of friends, and members and friends are urged to tell the story of the good accomplished to those who perhaps do not now know of the aims and objects of our institution.

To know of our program of mutual helpfulness and of its practical accomplishments, the Committee feels sure will inspire many to contribute in generous measure. Large contributions are of course welcome, but even more appreciated are contributions, however small, from a larger number of approving friends and well-wishers.

Increased income would make possible additions to the staff much needed to perfect the organization and conduct of classes, clubs and round-table groups, to develop sociability and comradeship, and to extend the work of the Employment Department particularly in the line of vocational guidance. These clubs and groups, it is planned, will govern themselves, and, related to one another as common interest suggests, provide excellent training in organization, citizenship and government; but a maximum in results can only be obtained under the most constant and skillful leadership and instruction. No more important contribution can at this time be made than the training of young men in the comprehension and exercise of citizenship.

Help us to increase income so that the best in inspirational leadership and training may be secured. Many members of the older days, now successful business men, repeatedly speak of what THE UNION has meant to them in helpful service, and when aware of needs and enlarging plans, generously respond with helpful personal or financial support. Many others need only to be told. Lend a hand; tell them.

* Deceased February 4, 1922.

ROOMS

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON ROOMS

William H. Brown, Chairman. W. Rodman Peabody

The rooms of THE UNION are the outward exemplification of inward strength. It is not alone the duty but a great pleasure for the Committee on Rooms to provide the habitation of all of THE UNION activities. It is our business to make possible the opportunities for culture, physical improvement, educational development and decent and hearty pleasure which are to be had under the hospitable roof of THE UNION.

For the most part we have refrained this year from structural changes, deeming it good policy not to make large expenditures in a building where the length of our stay is uncertain. We did, however, make use of the natural falling off of activities in the summer and early fall for such renovation and painting as the usual wear and tear made necessary.

The Union Hall, which for many years was one of the most widely patronized of all public halls of the city, and which has been out of commission for a number of years, because of war activities, has been put into condition for those activities which in other days added so much to THE UNION'S popular appeal, and is now in condition to be rented to the public for musical and dramatic entertainments at times when it is not in use by our people. The seats have been renovated and placed in position, and the hall has been used for these purposes both by our own people and in co-operation with other organizations, such as The Community Service, the Boston Theatre Guild, The Massachusetts Safety Council, etc.

As usual in recent years, there have been occasions when every room in the building was occupied by some activity. The Library Lobby has continued in active use as a Game Room. Here are located the Pool, Chess and Checker Tables, and just beyond, on the same floor, is the Silence Room, or Library Reading Room, where one may read or study without interruption.

Besides the rooms devoted to the social, clerical and benevolent work of THE UNION there are the useful class rooms which are used in the evening by our own classes and clubs and many of which contribute in daylight hours to the betterment of the community, by their use by the City of Boston for Continuation School work, and the teaching of English to boys and girls of foreign parentage.

There have been the usual minor changes in the personnel of our organization; Mr. Lindall C. Blanchard has succeeded Mr. Riley J. Hampton on the office accounting staff, where his genial presence has made itself felt in many directions. For the remainder of the staff, compliments, oft repeated, and familiar as old tales, are still deserved.

MEMBERS

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MEMBERS

Herbert D. Heathfield, Chairman. Robert Winsor, Jr.

The strength of THE UNION is in its membership. Only as it meets the all-round needs, spiritual, intellectual and physical, of a substantial number of young men does THE UNION meet the test and do credit to its founders. Our active membership, slightly greater than last year, taxes our capacity. THE UNION finds its justification in the fact that our members, men of all sorts and conditions, here find food not alone for their material needs, but for the ideals which make for democracy and service. The "square man" must be four-sided. He will develop himself along four lines,—spiritual, moral, mental and physical. Every activity of THE UNION seeks to be of service along one of these lines. Although there has been none of that stressing of the religious side of our work of such nature as to cause us to disturb those who shy away from sanctimoniousness and smugness, an underlying reverence permeates all our efforts, and we are always ready to put our facilities at the disposal of members desiring to get into touch with religious organizations of whatever faith.

In striving for the best development of Comradeship, Citizenship, Character, which we have declared to be our aim, it is borne in upon us very strongly that we have fallen short of our best hopes unless THE UNION atmosphere inspires our membership to do its full part in carrying along the work. Well-rounded character cannot be built on receiving alone. It must also give. The member who reads this who has profited only by what he has received, has not got all the advantage to which his membership entitles him. If he brings some of his own ability to the service of his fellow-members, he will not only be worth more to us but more to himself. We have always asked, "What can THE UNION do for you?" There is another question which we are asking, quite as important to both the organization and to the individual, and that is, "What can you do for THE UNION?" Make no mistake as you read this. Here is no disguised propaganda for a building fund. When the time comes, all our friends in and out of THE UNION will have the opportunity to help, but that has nothing to do with this message. Just now we are not asking for your money, but we are asking for a little bit of yourself, a little more enthusiasm, a little more service, a little more and better acquaintance with your fellows.

The slight loss of seven in membership, which we confidently expect to make up during the year, comes from among our life members. A large proportion of these were men of great activity in UNION affairs on whom we have relied for encouragement and counsel. We shall greatly miss them, but we are glad to point to the fact that our active membership, the red blood of THE UNION, is still gaining.

CLUBS

The Clubs of THE UNION bear to it a relation not unlike that of Commonwealths in the greater Union. Each has its own government in its own affairs and each owes allegiance to the entire brotherhood. Here we see THE UNION member at his happiest, merging himself in the activity best suited to him.

In all these organizations our membership is building up Comradeship—Citizenship—Character. That all may understand the club activities of THE UNION we give a list of clubs, alphabetically arranged, with a brief statement of the functions of each.

Boylston Chess Club—A chess players' organization developing individual playing and participating in contests with other clubs.

Hand-ball Players—A Gymnasium Club interested in this game. Their Annual Entertainment and dance was held in THE UNION HALL.

Mendelssohn Singers—A men's choral club rehearsing weekly under competent direction and giving concerts not only in THE UNION, but throughout Greater Boston.

NoinU Club—A social club with its activities centering in the Hostess Room.

Orchestral Club—A high-class musical society forming a large and competent orchestral organization. Its concerts of music of the better class are of a nature to appeal to the most fastidious.

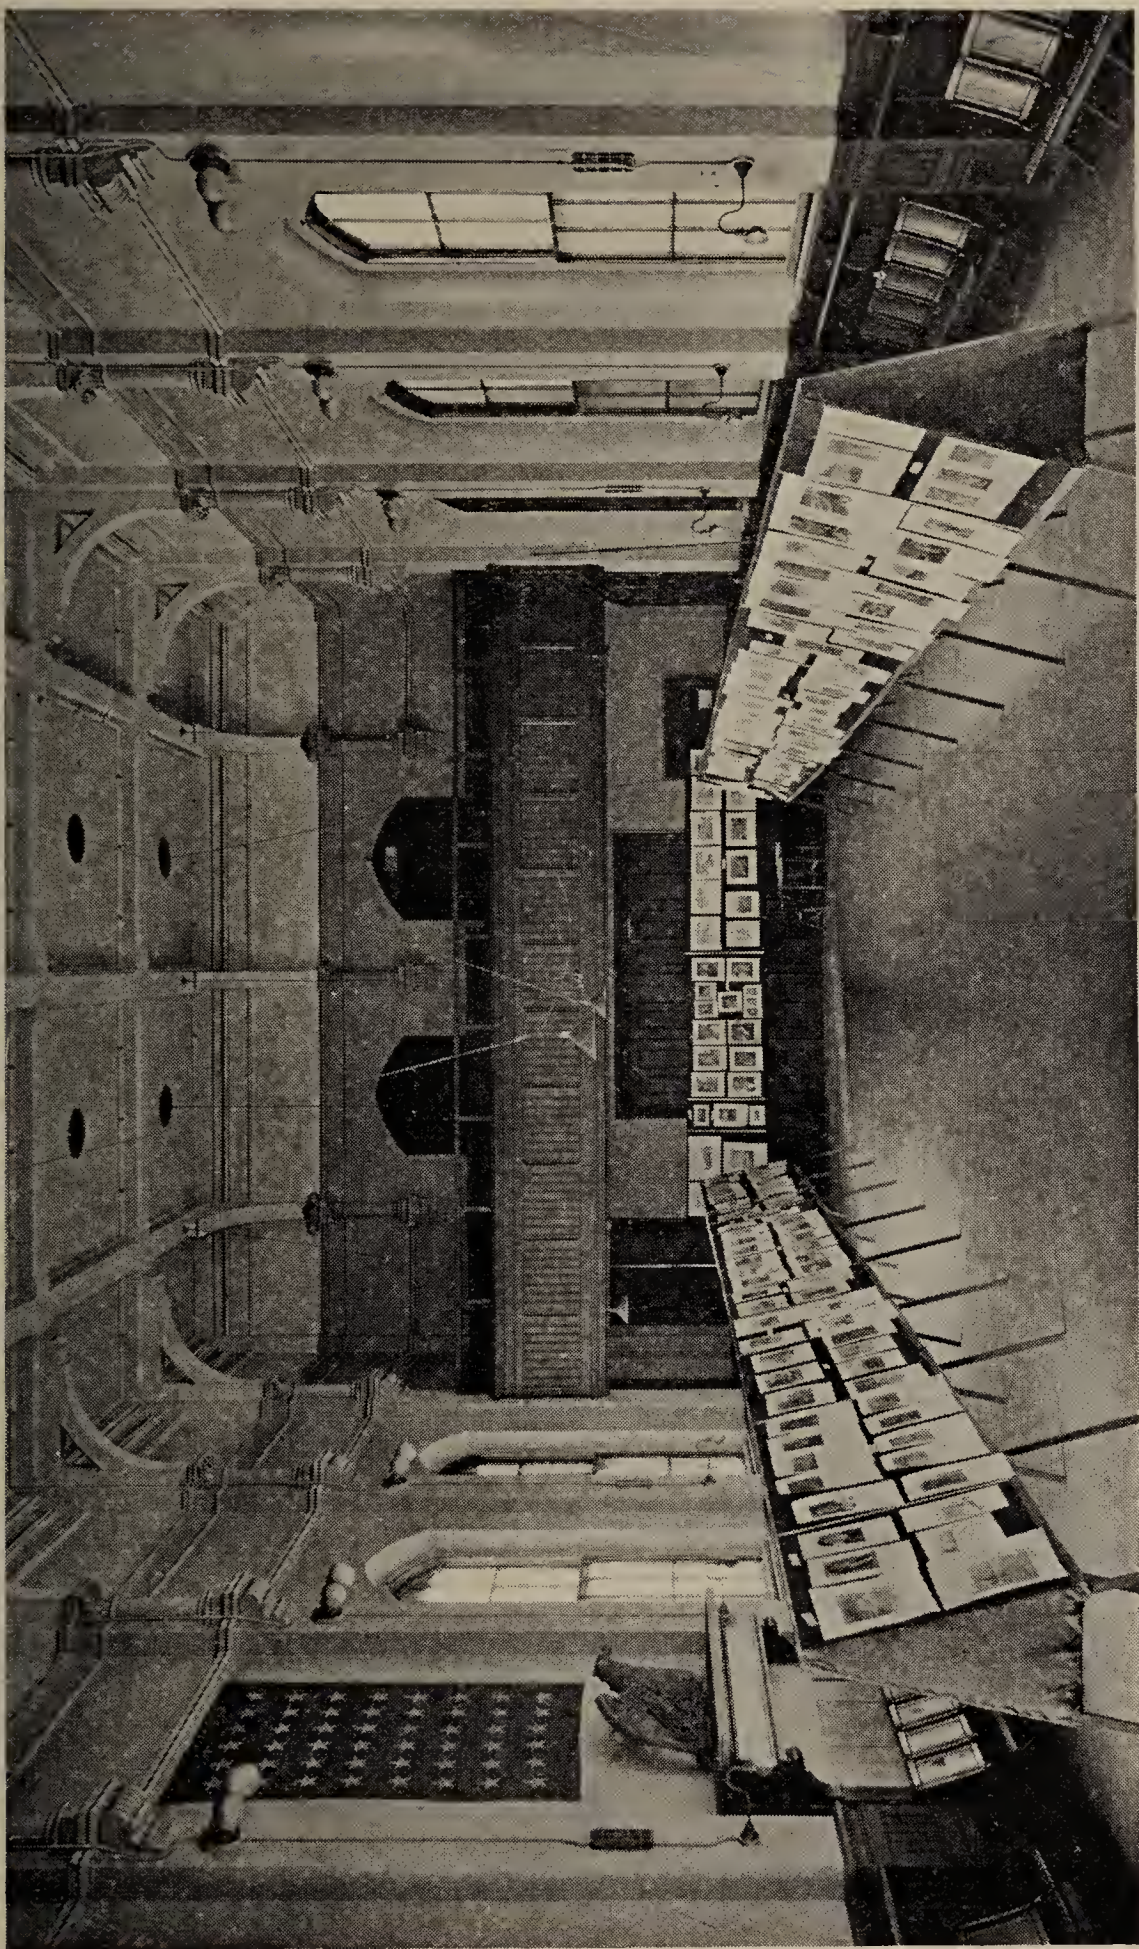

Park Street Club—A notable organization of many years' standing, organized for the consideration of public questions and now taking a prominent part in the affairs of THE UNION.

Salesman's Club—A club growing out of the Salesmanship classes of THE UNION. A clearing-house of helpfulness along trade lines.

Union Camera Club—An organization of two hundred members developing the art of photography. Recognized all over the country as an important factor in photographic progress.

Wrestling Club—A Gymnasium Club formed from members who especially enjoy this sport.

YD Band—A full military band of Yankee Division Veterans, all members of THE UNION. It is well known from its frequent public appearances.

EDUCATION

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION

Charles L. Burrill, Chairman. Edward A. Church

The efforts along strictly educational lines have been confined in two channels, those of classes and lectures. The usual classes have been held with gratifying results to the pupils and to the satisfaction and encouragement of the instructors. Experience has demonstrated that there are no more useful classes than those on fundamental subjects, as is clearly indicated by the attendance of the groups studying Business English, English Grammar and Arithmetic; the first two under the direction of J. Ellis Ames, the latter in charge of John F. Wostrel. Then there are the ever popular Elocution Classes which year in and year out attract a very large number of enthusiastic pupils. Irvin L. Potter is still their competent and popular director. A class in Salesmanship, that always important and at times elusive factor in commercial life, has been successfully maintained by George B. Darling and has led to the formation of a Salesmanship Club among its members. Of course, where so notable an organization as our Camera Club is "carrying on," a class in Photography would be an inevitable adjunct, and Arthur S. Dockham of the Club has given interesting and profitable instruction to a circle of beginners.

A class in Character Analysis has more lately been organized and is being directed by Fred M. Burroughs.

The lectures have been numerous and varied. Important among them have been two series given in co-operation with the Massachusetts Safety Council. One of these, consisting of ten lectures on general safety subjects, was given during the fall and winter months, and a second course of five lectures, primarily for operators of automobiles, was inaugurated on March 7.

On March 29, Mr. George Leo Patterson, the eminent authority on Astronomy, delivered the first of two popular lectures. His subject was, "Mars and Her Mysterious Canals." H. A. Collins gave an exhilarating and illuminating address on "Portraiture Lighting and Development," under the auspices of the Camera Club on February 21. On March 9 the Boston Entomological Club gave a series of short talks on various subjects which were grouped under the general heading, "Butterflies, Moths and Insects." This was illustrated from the valuable club collections, which include many of the rarest and most beautiful known specimens.

Education does not end with schooling. It is not always dependent on instruction. The educated man is the man who of his own volition amasses knowledge. Abraham Lincoln, practically without assistance, worked his way through Euclid. For men who desire to increase their store of human knowledge, THE UNION is ever ready to do its utmost. A case in point is THE UNION'S assistance to a group of young medical students, which was given quarters in the old study, just off the Library, in which to pursue anatomical investigations, and certain specimens belonging to THE UNION were placed at their disposal.

LIBRARY

Richard Ray, Jr., Librarian

THE UNION Library is one of the oldest and most honored of its institutions. In its original title, chosen by the group of interested enthusiasts who formed the organization in 1851 and which they soon changed to our present name, the word "literature" appeared. In the first prospectus the first of its functions to be mentioned was the maintenance of "a Library of Biblical Literature and other works of an elevated moral standard" and its request for donations for its support mentioned books before money.

When THE UNION was reorganized in 1868 after the suspension during the war, the Library Committee said in their second report, "The object of the Library Committee has been to procure the best books that will be read by the members of THE UNION, excluding everything of an immoral or irreligious tendency, but without aiming to make it a collection simply of works of a theological or devotional character." This statement made over fifty years ago expresses today the view of those conducting THE UNION Library.

It would be interesting if we could know the number and titles of the books in the little Library Room on West Street in 1868. We know at least that the best standard history, biography, fiction and poetry obtainable within the means of THE UNION found place on our shelves.

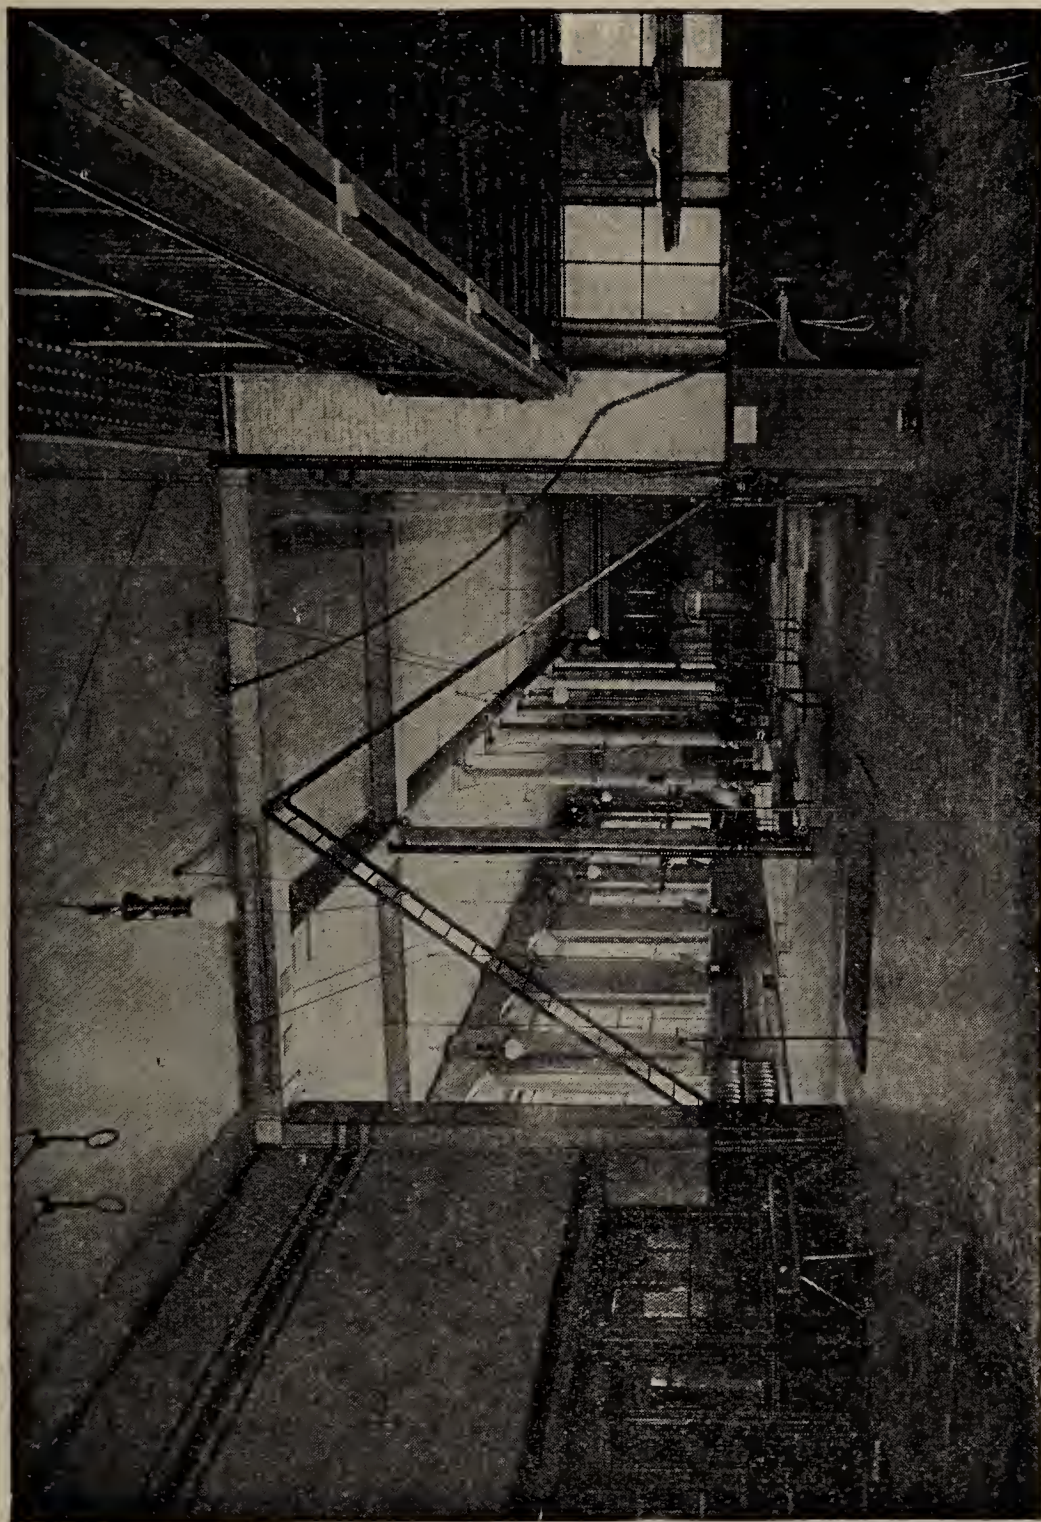

Today we have adopted exactly the same policy. The few hundred books of those days have increased to more than fifteen thousand volumes. The readers are many, and their diverse tastes are all accommodated. Walk through the Library any day and see the interested readers. Here perhaps is one who has been fortunate in finding on its shelf a copy of a popular novel of the present day, say “If Winter Comes” or “Scaramouche.” Here is a member of the Park Street Club, his nose deep in the encyclopedia, preparing for his next debate. Here is a reader dipping in Ruskin, while by his side another is “hearing through his eyes” the cadences of Tennyson. An unpretentious, spectacled gentleman is reading Macaulay for the splendor of his speech, some of which may cling to his tongue, for he is a college professor, whose large classes are somewhat due to the eloquence with which he presents his subject.

Here at a table behind a rampart of books of American History, his head bent over a ream of yellow paper, is a life member, the president of a well-known historical society, preparing a paper to be read before a sister organization. Here also is a UNION member whose heavy accent proclaims him to be an American by choice rather than birth, who has been a comparatively short time among us. See the knit brow, the elbows on the table, and the clenched hands on which he rests his head. Who doubts that he will conquer the unfamiliarities of English speech? Who but rejoices that THE UNION is providing the means? And so it goes. Many men, many minds, but all getting something out of the good things which have been written to increase the joy of those who love reading and culture. There is no library so large and so diverse in the city proper, to the shelves of which the general public has access for a nominal membership fee. Here are to be found facts and wonders and dreams, to be shared by all THE UNION members.

Main Floor of Gymnasium

PHYSICAL CULTURE

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PHYSICAL CULTURE

George S. Smith, Chairman. Walter H. Trumbull, Jr.

The Gymnasium, now as ever, is one of the chief centers of THE UNION. A strong, healthy, harmonious body makes the best possible headquarters for a decent thinking, honest living and spiritually advancing brain. One of the chief demands of the commercial world is stamina. The employment may be entirely clerical, even wholly intellectual, but the feeling that health and strength maintain the thinking machine in its normal power is everywhere accepted.

THE UNION has always endeavored to make this department as complete as possible, and its 6,800 square feet of floor space and its well-selected equipment give opportunities of which approximately five hundred men daily take advantage. There are nine classes held each day, under the competent leadership of Prof. Oliver L. Hebbert.

The first of these classes begins at half-past ten in the morning; the last is held at eight in the evening. Physicians largely attend the 10.30 class. That held just after noon is largely for heads of departments and business executives. There are classes for high-school boys, college students, business men, and the response to these opportunities is large and enthusiastic.

The sports connected with gymnasium life have been carried on with spirit and good nature. The hand-ball courts are constantly in use and THE UNION Gymnasium has entered several tournaments with other organizations and invariably made a creditable showing. The Wrestling Club is one of the most popular features of gymnasium life. We brought away three winners from the New England Amateur Championship contests, and the contests for THE UNION championships in the various classes were gallantly contested, before a large and greatly interested audience. The boxing for business men, carried on under four instructors, is a much-enjoyed feature. The Gymnasium members have given some very successful exhibitions at home and at other gyms.

Last November a boys' class of thirty was founded. Later it was joined by a group of ten from Winthrop under the leadership of Rev. R. W. Savage. This class meets weekly on Saturday at 10.30 A.M. It has been very successful, and if THE UNION is to be judged by what these enthusiastic little chaps think of it, we shall have nothing to be ashamed of.

A feature of great individual benefit is the class in Civil Service, a group under the immediate direction of Arthur Schneider, consisting of applicants for membership in local police and fire departments. The object is to bring those joining the class fully up to the physical standard necessary for admission to these forces. The class has always been notably successful and its members have uniformly received high marks, a number having turned out to be 100% men.

Altogether the gymnasium year has been profitable to its members and creditable to its instructors, and is doing its full share in making the membership of THE UNION hearty, healthy and happy.

SOCIAL SERVICE

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL SERVICE

Edward A. Church, Chairman. Charles Jackson

Social Service is the prime purpose and motive of the Christian Union. It is the spirit of a true Democracy in active operation; a sentiment prevailing in all our departments, but which finds especial expression in the work of "The Country Week," "Rides for Invalids" and "The Christmas Festival."

"The Country Week" comes first in importance, extent and popularity. It is a health-giving and life-saving service to the children of Boston, and in the forty-seven years of its beneficent existence has become so well and widely known that no explanatory details of its operation need here be given. During the Season of 1921 it provided country vacations of two weeks or more for eighteen hundred and ninety-four persons. A well-illustrated report of the work may be had on application.

Camp Boys

"Rides for Invalids" is believed to be the only organized service of this nature in our city, and its purpose is clearly indicated by its title. For many years it has given cheer and comfort to the suffering. The weak and weary have blessed it; tired mothers and their babies have been refreshed by it; and it has carried many patients to and from the hospitals. It has been a valued auxiliary to many of our city charities and has their cordial approval. Here is its record for the past year: Persons given carriage drives, 552; boat tickets distributed, 368; car tickets distributed, 7,560. Total of 8,420.

“The Christmas Festival” is a great event in the annals of THE UNION and in the experience of the little guests who share in its joyous privileges. It was celebrated for the forty-eighth time on Saturday afternoon, December 17, and was attended by about seven hundred happy children, while the (more or less) “distinguished guests” looked on from the gallery of THE UNION Hall, though Mayor Peters found a place on the stage and told the children what he thought about them. President Locke was the master of ceremonies and Mr. George Wheelwright was the Santa Claus. The singing of the children was, as usual, a special feature of the entertainment, and valuable assistance in this line was given by a group of thirty boys from the Norfolk House Centre, under the direction of Mr. William Howell Reed. Motion pictures and refreshments were added attractions, and every child was given a box of carefully selected clothing, shoe orders, etc., with toys and candies. The preparations for this Festival were made by various committees of men and women, who gave weeks of generous service to the work.

Whippoorwill Camp

Miss Theodora A. Luard still administers and superintends the work of this department with increasing interest and ability and has already become a recognized authority in the Social Service organizations of our community. The efficiency of her assistant,

Miss Scarborough, must also be commended, and faithful service was rendered during the summer by Misses Hebard and Corey.

This is but a brief notice of an extended and varied service, but it is hoped that enough has been said to show that service to be worth while and to induce our generous supporters to “let the good work go on.” Those who have given of their money and of their personal effort have the cordial appreciation of our committee and of hundreds of beneficiaries. Grateful for the past, we look confidently forward to wider opportunities and increasing ability to meet them.

EMPLOYMENT DEPARTMENT

Herbert C. Bronsdon, Superintendent

It is the especial aim of the Employment Department to place the right man in the right place, avoiding the unnecessary waste of an employer's time in investigating applicants haphazardly recommended. This seems to the committee a greater service to the community than an effort to place a larger number of applicants in places they can fill only temporarily. By thus safe-guarding both applicant and employer we have in a singularly large measure received that confidence which is so largely responsible for the success of this department.

It can be said that many of our leading business men in Boston today received their first insight into business through the Employment Department. An example of our success in furnishing employees who make good was brought to light not long ago, when at luncheon a gentleman on the opposite side of the room scrutinized me very strongly and after he had finished his luncheon stepped over to my table and asked if I were not Mr. Bronsdon of the Employment Department of the Christian Union. When I told him that I was, he said: “You may not and probably do not remember me, but twenty years ago I came into THE UNION insistent upon getting into the automobile line and by persistency and calling frequently I was successful. One day I received a postal card requesting me to call, and was sent to a concern that was anxious to get a man to fill a certain position, was accepted and remained there for a number of years, having finally taken over the business myself, and am still in it.”

Here is a concrete example of the far-reaching influence of THE UNION Employment Department, and the fact that employees in after years remember and appreciate our efforts is both encouraging and stimulating to its Superintendent.

THE UNION has in connection with the Employment Department a committee of business men to whom applicants can be referred to assist them in determining the choice of a vocation.

The greater proportion of our applications for employment and the greater number of inquiries for employees are naturally in professional, mercantile and commercial branches, but on the other hand we are glad to serve any one, and if through our own Department we are unable to render service, we are glad to work with other agencies to render service to the applicant.

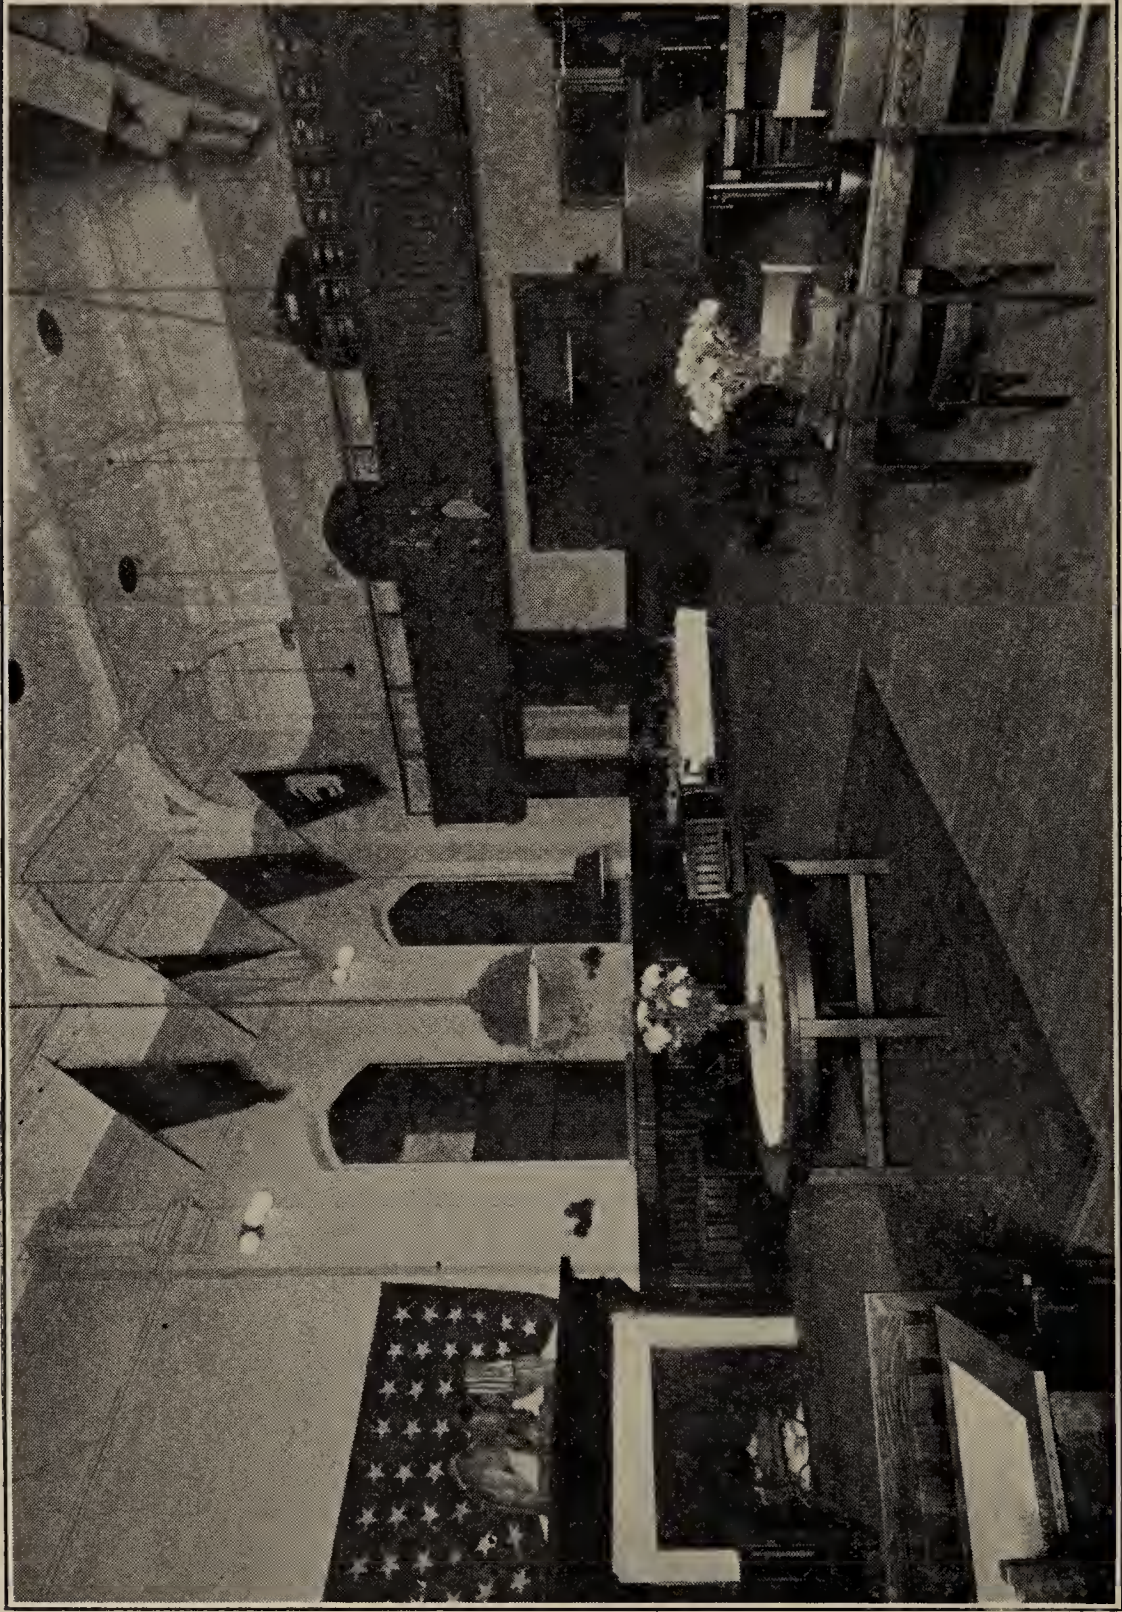

We emphasize to the readers of this report and to the employing public in general our ability to furnish as employees a high type of young men of character and ability and invite correspondence toward filling your needs. We can help you to get the right kind of chap; you can help the right kind of chap to make good.

We ask our own members to give this important department a helping hand. If you know of a place to be filled, tell us about it. You may be sure that only an A1 man will be offered to fill it. If you know a man worth a position a notch above the one he holds, let us know. Some one may be looking through this bureau for just such a fellow. There is no better opportunity for co-operation among the members of THE UNION than this.

HOSTESS ROOM

On the floor above the Main Offices, on the Boylston Street front, is the homelike and delightful Hostess Room. It occupies what was once known as THE UNION Parlor, which in a measure corresponded to the "front room" of our early New England days, even, it is said, including the black walnut "what-not," although the glass-enclosed wax flowers were mercifully absent. Now in the social life of the community the parlor is replaced by the living room, and our UNION Hostess Room has become a living room in the very best sense.

Among all the features of THE UNION, this room, from its very nature, gives in one way the best exemplification of THE UNION'S effort for comradeship. Here, in short, is a bit of family life tucked away in the midst of the bustle of a great commercial city. We want the great UNION family to experience more and more of our home feeling.

The Union Hall
Ready for Hostess Room Reception

Miss Sharman, our Permanent Hostess, administers the affairs of the Hostess Room with this idea always in mind. To the ordinary social intercourse is added such informal dancing and card-playing as can be found in cultivated homes. The adjoining kitchen gives us additional opportunities. This is a tremendously useful adjunct. In addition to making use of it on special occasions, such as that of Thanksgiving Day, when we gave an old-fashioned dinner of turkey and "fixin's" to a delighted group of our members, and serving supper for the regular meetings of the Conference Committee, groups of our members have found it a haven for meals à la Dutch-treat, bringing in and preparing their food and making steaming pots of coffee. This is the invariable custom of the Mendelssohn Singers on rehearsal nights, and the whole-souled enjoyment of the impromptu cooks adds zest to the entire evening.

A dramatic group has found our surroundings congenial and has made good progress at their rehearsals. At the Christmas season a toy-making class was organized, and many a little one received a unique gift as a result of its efforts. On November 8 a little fair was held, with happy results.

An activity radiating from the Hostess Room which has been of great importance and which illustrates the friendliness of THE UNION spirit at its very best has been the Hospital Flower Mission, which was never so successful as this past year. Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Nauss and Mrs. Clarke made it possible for us to distribute a very large quantity of flowers to the Chelsea Naval Hospital and Parker Hill. In fact, the physicians so valued our work, we felt it necessary to continue visiting the hospitals during the greater part of the winter. Frequently word has come from the Hospital Physician telling of a very suffering surgical patient and asking, "Could the ladies send him a few flowers to cheer him?" The flowers were immediately sent and most grateful thanks were returned.

Under the general supervision of Miss Luard, Miss Gertrude Sharman as Permanent Hostess and Miss Vivien Hoyt as sub-hostess have had the co-operation of the following committees, most of whom have devoted regular afternoons and evenings to the work: Miss Mary F. Bartlett, Chairman; Mrs. Charles Hammond, Mrs. James Spring, Mrs. George Nauss, Miss Ada Dow, Mrs. Karl Adams, Mrs. A. G. Matless, Mrs. William Hodges, Mrs. E. W. Dearing and Mrs. Jennie Clarke.

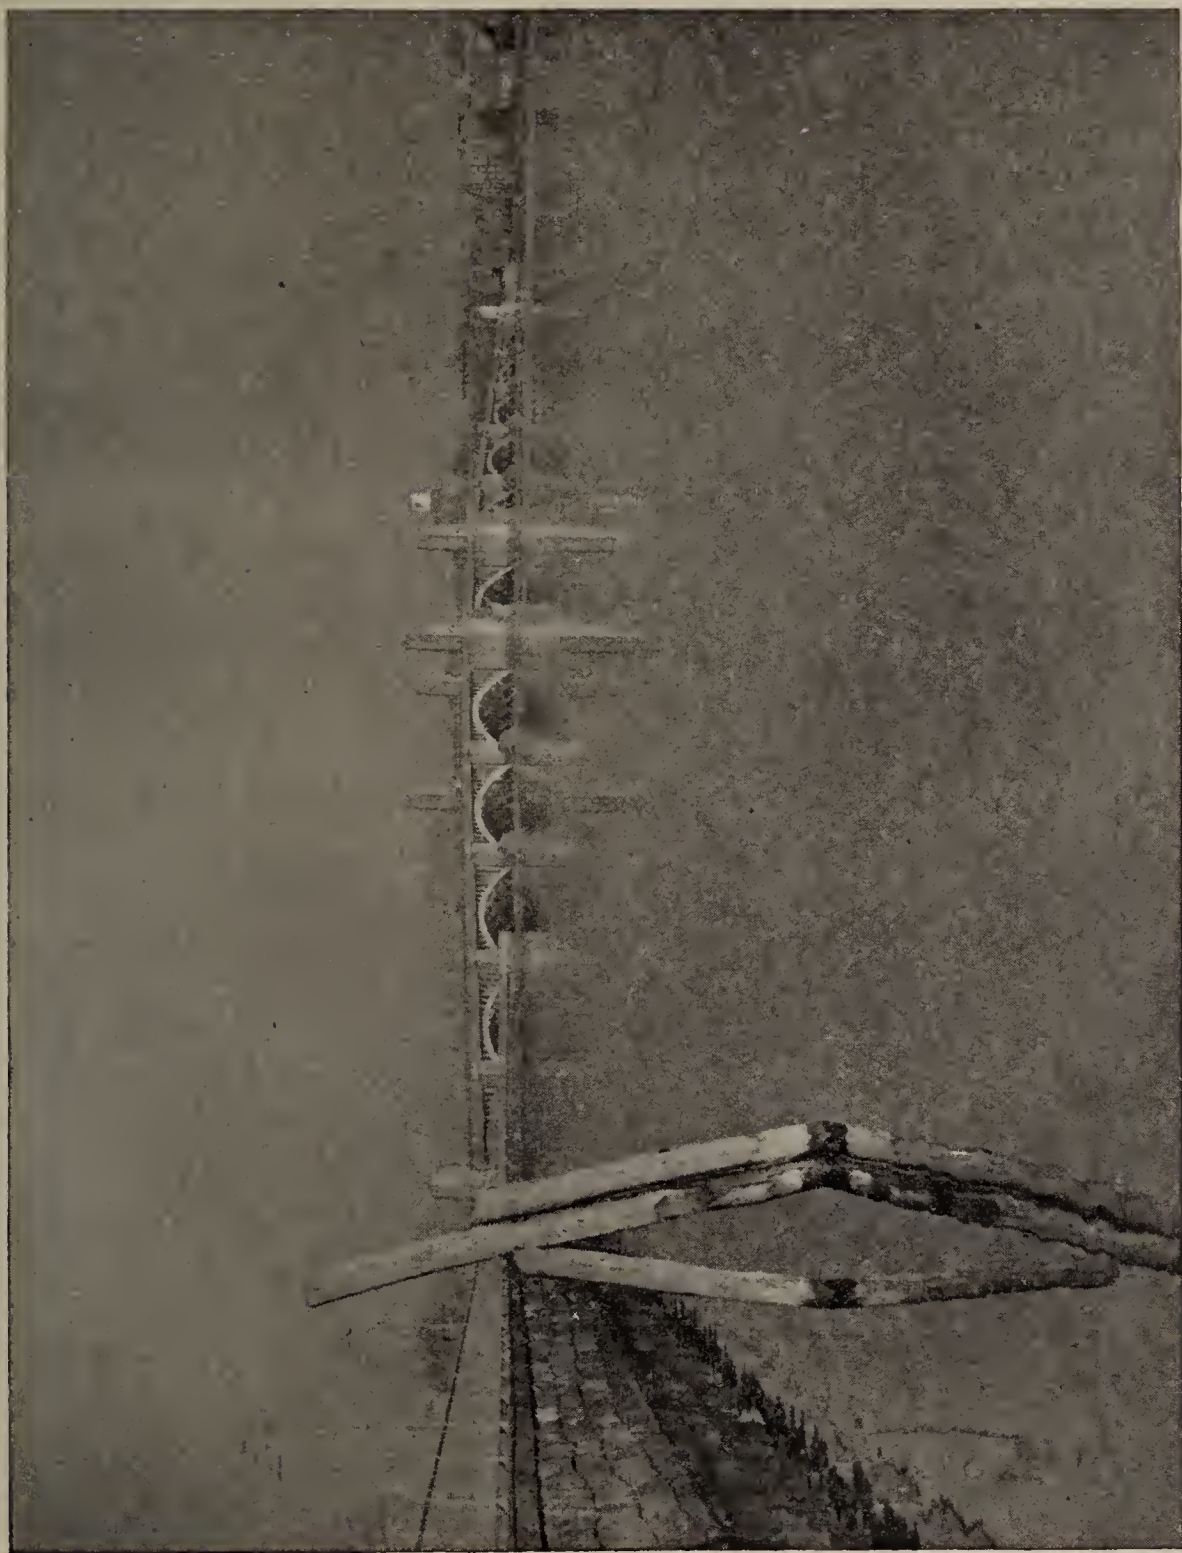

These ladies, each with different individual characteristics, which give zest and variety to their efforts, have all been actuated by a pervasive enthusiasm, friendliness and camaraderie which has given the Hostess Room exactly the right touch and given happiness and that home sense so rarely achieved in organization work to all who have found in the Hostess Room a delightful substitute for the family life they have left behind.

Social Corner in Reception Hall

We picture a skirmish line of the settlement houses, boys' clubs, school centres, and other institutions dealing particularly with the home and neighborhood problems. From these outposts would come in to THE UNION by natural inclination as well as by team play, suggestion and direction, the specially fitted, specially ambitious, just as the more fortunate at the same period might go away to college.
